

THE CUT

by Margaret Rhodes
November 2, 2017

How The Wing's Second Location Is Different

The Wing, Audrey Gelman's "coven" for notable and professional women who like to network, opened its second location last Monday. Housed in a manufacturing warehouse built in 1980, the Soho outpost is three times the size of the inaugural location on East 20th Street. The Wing's operators have filled the cavernous space with a new library of books written by women, a café and bar serving drinks mixed by women, and arrangements of jewel-toned sofas and chairs, chosen by a woman.

The Wing's new SoHo outpost

The entrance to The Wing's new Soho outpost. The sectional sofas were designed by interior designer Chiara de Rege and custom made in Los Angeles. The art on the walls is curated by Wing member Lolita Cros and will rotate.